LABOR UNIONS MAKE PROTEST

To Congress on Interpretation of Laws.

Urge Relief From Grievances Occasioned by Supreme Court's Recent Decision.

On Thursday of last week a memorial was presented to congress of the United States by representatives of eighty-seven national and international trade and labor organizations and farmers organizations assembled in national conference at Washington. This is the conference to which president C. M. Barnett of the American Society of Equity was called on Monday of last week of which we were unable to procure satisfactory report as to its purpose. The scope of the memorial was set forth in the following opening paragraph.

We, the officials representatives of the national and international trade and labor unions and organizations of farmers in National Conference assembled in the District of Columbia, for the purpose of considering and taking action deemed necessary to meet the situation in which the working people are placed by recent decisions of the courts, now appear before congress to voice the earnest and emphatic protest of the workers of the country against the indifference if not actual hostility which Congress has shown to ward the reasonable and righteous measures proposed by the workers for the safeguarding of the rights and interests.

In the name of labor we now urge upon Congress the necessity for immediate action for relief from the most grave and momentous situation which has ever confronted the working people of this country. This crisis has been brought about by the application by the Supreme Court of the United States of the Sherman anti-trust law to the workers, both organized and in their individual capacity.

The workers feel that Congress itself must share our chagrin and sense of injustice when the courts exhibit an utter disregard for the real intent and purpose of laws enacted to safeguard and protect the workers in the exercise of their normal activities.

There is something ominous in the front manner in which the courts guarantee workers:

The right to be malmed and killed without liability to the employer.

The right to be discharged for belonging to a union.

The right to work as many hours as employers please and under any conditions which they may impose.

Labor is justly indignant at the bestowal or guaranteeing of these worthless and academic "rights" by the courts, which in the same breath deny and forbid the workers the practical and necessary protection of laws which define and safeguard their rights and liberties and the exercise of them individually or in association.

The "protest" submitted by Mr. Gompers and his associates—Joseph F. Valentine, 8th vice president of the American Federation of Labor; W. R. Fairley of the United Mine Workers' Union of North America; C. M. Barnett of the American Society of Equity; W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Street and Electric Railway Employees and P. J. McAdams of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers—refers to the Supreme Court decision in the hatters' case as "the most recent perversion of the intent of a law by the judiciary by which the Sherman anti-trust law has been made to apply to labor although it was an accepted fact that Congress did not intend the law to so apply and might even have specifically exempted labor but for the fear that the Supreme Court might construe such an affirmative provision to be unconstitutional." The protest continues:

We favor enactment of laws which shall restrict the jurisdiction of courts of equity to property and property rights and shall so define property and property rights that neither nor industry shall there be held to be any property or property rights in the labor or labor power of any person or persons.

The memorial submits to Congress for consideration two amendatory provisions in substance as follows:

That nothing in said act (Sherman anti-trust law) or in this act is intended nor shall any provision thereof hereafter be enforced so as to apply to organizations or associations not for profit and without capital stock nor to the members of such organizations or associations.

That nothing in said act (Sherman anti-trust law) or in this act is intended nor shall any provision thereof hereafter be enforced so as to apply to any arrangements, agreements or combinations among persons engaged in agriculture or horticulture made with a view of enhancing the price of their own agricultural or horticultural products.

Congress is informed that in addition labor urges: The Peace bill, to regulate and limit the issuance of injunctions; the employers liability bill; the bill extending the application of the eight-hour law to all Government employees and those employed on work for the Government by contractor or subcontractor.

Continuing the memorial says:

We come to Congress hoping for a prompt and adequate remedy for the grievances of which we justly complain. The psychological moment has arrived for a total change of governmental policy toward the workers; to permit it to pass may be to invite disaster even to our national life.

In this frank statement of its grievances the attitude of labor should not be misinterpreted nor should it be held as wanting in respect for our highest law-making body.

That the workers, while smarting under a most keen sense of injustice and neglect turn first to Congress for a remedy shows how greatly they still trust in the power and willingness of this branch of the Government to restore safeguard and protect their rights.

While no member of Congress or party can evade or avoid his or her own individual or party share of responsibility, we aver that the party in power must and will by labor and its sympathizers, be held primarily responsible for the failure to give prompt, full and effective congressional relief we know to be within its power.

Speaker Cannon and Vice President Fairbanks announced their belief that the present Congress will pass an employers' liability act which will meet and overcome the unconstitutionalities of the present law pointed out by the Supreme Court of the United States in a recent decision.

SHOCKING CRIME ON AN INFANT GIRL

Brute Attempted An Assault on Baby Girl Two Years Old Near Central City.

Central City, March 24.—The suburbs of Central City has again been the scene of another horrible crime. The two year old child of Della Reed Chism was assaulted at the home of its mother at the Bluff just a mile from here and now is in a critical condition with small hope for its recovery.

Saturday while its mother was absent from home, Henry Wedding a young man 20 years of age is accused of having entered the house, and after committing other indignities to the child, attempted to commit an assault. In order to carry out his vile intentions he cut the child with a knife. The mother did not reveal the crime until Sunday, when as Wedding passed her home, while she was talking to "Uncle Jimmy" Masham and others she remarked: "There is the man who cut my child." She seemed frightened and refused to say any more but investigation revealed the state of affairs and she claims that Wedding had threatened to kill her if she told. The sheriff was notified and learned that Wedding was taking steps to leave he deputized Mr. Tade Foley, of South Carrollton, to make the arrest. Mr. Foley found him at the home of his uncle Charlie Whitehouse just across the river at the South Carrollton Ferry, and brought him to Central City. Deputy Sheriff Charlie Blackwell took possession of him here and delivered him to the jailer of Greenville. Wedding stoutly denies the crime, but children old enough to know, state that they saw him. Just a few weeks ago he was accused of having shot a flagman at Henderson but was released on account of lack of evidence. The community is aroused and there is strong talk of a mob dealing with him. Guards will be placed at the Greenville jail to protect the man. Wedding is the son of Park Wedding.

STRONG APPEAL TO MEMBERS

Of American Society of Equity For Order.

President J. Campbell Cantrill Makes a Plea For Law and Order.

J. Campbell Cantrill, president of the Kentucky Union of the Society of Equity, has issued an address to the members of the society appealing to them to do all in their power to preserve law and order. His card in full follows:

To the members of the American Society of Equity in Kentucky—Greeting: The deplorable condition of affairs existing in our State to-day puts a great responsibility upon our shoulders. A feeling of unrest and uneasiness pervades the whole State and in some localities riots have occurred and anarchy exists.

"As president of this great Society of Equity, I know that this society is in no way responsible for this terrible condition and with all law-loving citizens condemn those who have brought this disgrace upon the fair name of our State. However, each member of our society should thoroughly understand that in the minds of many people in Kentucky and in the Nation we are considered responsible to some degree, and we must meet conditions as they are. I call upon each local union of the American Society of Equity in Kentucky to do all in its power to preserve the peace and maintain law and order in the community where said union is organized. I ask that each member in his word and action so conduct himself that he will compel the respect of all classes of people and reflect honor upon our society.

"Our society has done more to increase the material wealth and prosperity of our people than any organization that ever existed in the history of the State. The organization of the Kentucky farmers and the teaching of co-operation in selling our products have upon the one commodity of tobacco alone added eighteen million dollars annually to the wealth of Kentucky.

"In the four great tobacco districts of Kentucky our annual production is about 300,000,000 pounds. Since the organization of our society we have advanced by our methods of selling, the price on tobacco 6 cents a pound. To disrupt our organization would be a public calamity and would throw the tobacco growers of the State back into the old state of servitude and slavery to the trust.

"Law and order must and will prevail in this State and in the Nation. Any organization to succeed must have the stamp of public confidence and esteem. Any society which is held responsible before the bar of public opinion for the overthrow of law and order must finally be a failure. The great duty now resting upon the Society of Equity in Kentucky and the different tobacco organizations which are branches of the Society of Equity is to try to stamp out lawlessness in every form and to help the civil authorities in every way to punish the guilty and maintain the maiming and maintain the peace of the Commonwealth. Let each member of our society thoroughly know that the loss of public opinion means the failure of our organization and upon the other side that the holding of public opinion means our success. Success is imperative but it must come with clean hands so as to be creditable and enjoyable to all who participate in it.

"Those living outside of the tobacco district do not appreciate the great struggles and sacrifices that have been made by the farmers who have pooled their tobacco. They do not know and cannot fully understand with out being on the ground what burdens our people have to carry and what they have to suffer for the sake of a principle and for their loyalty to our cause.

"A great majority of the tobacco growers of Kentucky belong to our associations. The minority who do not belong to these associations have been feeding the trust and receiving very high price for their tobacco which our people by their suffering and sacrifice have secured for them.

"And while I call upon our own people to stand true to the law of the land I call upon those farmers outside of our association to stand true to a higher law—a moral obligation due one from another and from brother to brother in this great cause of humanity.

"If those farmers outside of the pool will bury greed and avarice and do their full duty in this hour of trouble and turmoil and join hands and hearts with our people peace, happiness and prosperity will cover the State and make us a united people.

"The last Legislature passed several bills which will be of great help to our tobacco organizations, notably the bill imposing a fine of $250 upon one selling or buying pooled tobacco. The buying of pooled tobacco has been the chief cause of trouble in the State. We must look to this law for relief and protection. I feel sure that the penalty imposed by the law will be sufficient to stop the buying of pooled tobacco. With a stringent law upon this point there can be absolutely no excuse for any set of men taking the law in their own hands to punish a man who violates his contract with his association.

There are thousands of tobacco growers in Kentucky who have their tobacco pooled who are not members of the American Society of Equity. I ask and implore every tobacco grower to take membership in the Society of Equity. It is the bulwark against the oppression of the Tobacco Trust and the defender of your rights and of your homes.

"In conclusion my brothers in Equity, our society having accomplished so much for the welfare of the Kentucky tobacco grower, let us turn our attention to the conditions which surround us and do our full duty as citizens in helping to restore peace and harmony among Kentuckians, never forgetting our duty to our society but remembering our own victory is not secure when riot prevails and where civil law is a nullity and a sham. Fraternally,

J. CAMPBELL CANTRILL,
President American Society of Equity in Kentucky."

FORTHE BUSY READER.

The bill prepared by the National Civic Federation after conference with the President and representatives of capital and labor to relieve the stringency of the Sherman anti-trust law was introduced in the House Monday by Representative Hepburn, of Iowa.

W. F. Nelkirk, the State Fire Marshal, has turned his attention from Western Kentucky to the Bluegrass and will investigate the raids in Woodford and Scott counties. Mr. Nelkirk has investigated twenty-nine fires, brought about three indictments and has prepared much other evidence for submission to grand juries.

Butler McClanahan, Jr., and Henry Fanning, prominent farmers, have been arrested on the charge of the murder of Hiram Hedges in Nicholas county Friday night. Warrants were sworn out by Mrs. Hedges, and it is understood that others are to follow. The men live only a short distance from the scene of the killing.

The American Federation of Labor and President Gompers and others of that organization were permanently enjoined from "conspiring, agreeing or combining to obstruct or destroy" the business of the Buck Stove and Range Company in a decision rendered by Chief Justice Clabaugh, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

Mayor James P. Smith, of Paducah, headed in person a raid on the gambling and disorderly houses of that city, during which a large number of arrests were made and some gambling paraphernalia destroyed. Evidence on which the Mayor acted was obtained by Pinkerton detectives, who were working without the knowledge of the police force.

In Memory.

Of little Delbert Wilcox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Wilcox, aged 1 year 9 months and 8 days died at his home in Central City March 2 of bowel trouble after 1 month of suffering. His dear little body was taken to Ohio county and laid beside his little brother and sister at Pon Run church. Delbert was the baby brother in a family of three children and was almost idolized by the parents and two little sisters. One That Loved Him.

APPEAL TO VOTERS OF THIS STATE.

The Fairbanks Men Issue an Address to the Rank

And Set Forth the Advantages to Be gained by the Nomination of the Indianian.

As a result of the conference of Fairbanks leaders in Louisville Tuesday an address to the Republicans of Kentucky was issued appealing to them to stand by the Vice President for the presidential nomination.

The address to the voters prepared by two representatives from each congressional district was adopted as follows:

To the Republicans of Kentucky: At a conference of Republicans of the State of Kentucky this day held in Louisville Ky., in the interest of Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, this address to the Republicans of Kentucky was adopted and was directed to be signed by the undersigned committee and published.

The great majority of the Republican voters of Kentucky have no selfish interest in the outcome of the struggle for the Presidential nomination, but do most earnestly desire the nomination of a candidate who can certainly be elected. They also anxiously desire the nomination of a candidate who can carry Kentucky.

Conceding the distinguished ability and services of Mr. Taft, we believe that it might prove unwise to nominate him, for the reason that the labor vote and the negro vote are hostile to him and because his campaign is being directed and controlled by Federal office holders and if nominated his nomination will be chiefly due to their activity and efforts, which fact will in our judgment greatly weaken him as a candidate before the people.

If the Republican party is to win in the nation this year it must have for its Presidential candidate one who will appeal to and command every element of party strength. The loss to our ticket of a substantial portion of the Republican labor vote, or of the negro vote, or of a large stay-at-home or indifferent Republican vote, would make almost certain the election of a Democratic President. The loss to us of all these elements would make certain Democratic success.

We believe that Vice President Fairbanks, Indiana's favorite son and our friend and neighbor, would combine these and all elements of party strength and all elements of party strength and that if nominated he will be triumphantly elected. We also believe that his nomination will insure Kentucky's electoral vote for the Republican ticket.

We believe that the exalted character the distinguished and patriotic services of the Vice President his unswerving and effective devotion to the great principles and policies of our party throughout his career and especially during the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations, his freedom from political entanglements or elements of political weakness his personality and life history all combine to make him the ideal candidate of our party in the great struggle that is approaching.

The Republicans of Kentucky are not ingrates. They know that the Republicans of no State in the Union have stood by them as have the Republicans of Indiana. This has always been true. Never have the Republicans of Kentucky asked a favor of the Republicans of Indiana that was not accorded. Their kindness to us has been so uniform so varied and of such long standing that we know it to be of the noblest most unselfish character. To-day we are the everlasting debtors of Indiana. Our indebtedness we can never fully discharge. Let us now in this hour of opportunity repay in some small measure, that indebtedness by instructing our delegates to vote for Indiana's choice. It should be the delight of Kentucky Republicans to support him. Let us give him our loyal unstinted support and we shall not stand alone. Republicans throughout the length and breadth of the country are accepting him as the solution of this struggle. His nomination is the logic of the situation.

As Kentucky goes the nation may go.

We appeal to the Republicans of Kentucky to stand by Indiana. Go to the county convention on April 25 and vote for delegates pledged for Fairbanks. Also vote for committeemen who will serve the party unselfishly. Ask those Federal officeholders who may wish you to make them chairman of your committees to be content with what they have and to allow the boys in the trenches to have some voice in the party management.

CHOPPED TO DEATH WITH HIS OWN AX.

Alfred Cherry Kills His Brother-in-law With an Ordinary Ax.

A most sensational homicide occurred in the Pond Run neighborhood last Saturday. The principals in the unfortunate tragedy were Wayne Baxter and his half-witted or idiot brother-in-law, Alfred Cherry.

Cherry, as the story goes, has been adjudged an idiot by due process of law and thereby draws $75 a year from the State. He lived with Baxter, who was his brother-in-law, and who was also his committee. As such committee Baxter drew the money. He had a few days previous made such a draw and had gone to Central City and procured a jug of liquor. He tanked up pretty well and of course started a rough house, chased his wife around the house several times with the avowed intention of giving her a thrashing when he caught her. Cherry was out in the horse lot near by and heard the trouble. He came to his sister's rescue carrying the fatal weapon, the ax, with him. Baxter seeing him coming attempted to enter the house to get his gun. As he ascended the door steps Cherry struck him in the back knocking him down and without letting him up put an end to his existence. The story is told in the following evidence given before the jury sworn to hold the inquest:

Evidence given by witnesses hereinafter named, at inquest held over the dead body of Wayne Baxter on the 21st, of March, 1908. Mrs. Sarah Baxter (wife of said Wayne Baxter) after being sworn, stated that her husband threatened to kill her and pursued her around the house some three or four times, started into the house to get his gun to shoot her, and just at that time her brother, Alfred Cherry, came with an ax and attacked her husband and struck him several times with the ax. She turned back and pushed her brother away and kept him from cutting him any more with the ax, and that her husband died in two or three minutes from the wounds received with the ax in the hands of her brother, Alfred Cherry.

Nate Baxter, son of the deceased, stated on oath that when he got to the house that his father was dead from the wounds inflicted with an ax in the hands of Alfred Cherry.

Alfred Cherry, an adjudged idiot, stated on oath that he had left the house to avoid a difficulty with his brother-in-law, Wayne Baxter and had not gotten far when he heard his sister screaming and looked back and saw her husband running after her and threatening to kill his sister, and that he ran back and got an ax and just as his brother-in-law was stepping into the house to get his gun he struck him in the back with the ax. He (Baxter) fell on the floor of the porch and he struck him several times about the face and neck with the ax, killing him.

Esq. John H. Miles held the inquest and the following jury after hearing the evidence, returned the following verdict:

We, the jury, find that Wayne Baxter, came to his death by wounds inflicted with an ax in the hands of Alfred Cherry, on the 21st day of March, 1908. W. B. FULKERSON, T. H. GRAHAM, H. B. BOWEN, R. L. BROWN, N. A. BROWN, A. P. ROBINSON.

KILLED ON HIS OWN DOOR STEP

While Pleading With Night Riders to Leave.

Had Promised to Destroy Plant Beds and Not to Plant Others.

Charlottesville, Ky., March 21.—A band of masked and heavily armed night riders shot and killed Hiram Hedges on the doorstep of his home where he stood and pleaded with them to go away about midnight last night. According to the statement of C. H. Hedges son of the murdered man, there were about seventy-five men in the party.

Young Hedges says that he was awakened by some one throwing rocks against the house. His father came into his room carrying a shotgun and said: "Son, there are too many of them out there for me to fight." The two then went to the front door the father leaving his gun. He opened the door and inquired of the men what they wanted. He was told to step out on the porch and wait. They then ordered him to come out onto the steps and he again complied. "I want to say to you," he said, "that I have never done anything but what is right toward the society. I have planted one bed and intended planting another, but if you will go away and do no harm I will grow up the bed I intended planting and never put canvas on the other. I may be a poor boy coming here, but I wish you would go away."

At this juncture a shot was fired. Hedges cried: "I am shot" and staggered back into the house. His son put him on a bed and returned to the door. One of the riders asked "where is the old man?" He is shot," replied the young man. Several exclaimed that they did not believe it. Young Hedges asked some of them to leave their guns and come in and see. Six of them came to the house, three entering and the other standing guard at the door. Those who entered came out of the house and reported that Hedges was shot. The gang then rode away up the Lexington and Mayaville turnpike.

It does the Business.

Mr. E. R. Chamberlain of Clinton, Maine, says of Bucklen's Arnica Salve: "It does the business. I have used it for piles and it cured them. Used it for chapped hands and it cured them. Applied it to an old sore and it healed it without leaving a scar behind."

Diamonds to be Cheaper.

London, March 4.—There is a probability according to the Daily Mail, that the diamond monopoly will be broken up through the non-renewal of the contract which expires this month between the Premier Diamond Mining Company and the Diamond Syndicate which hitherto has taken the output of both the Premier and the De Beers companies in case the contract is not renewed war will be declared by the Premier company against the De Beers.

The Diamond Syndicate practically controls the world's output, amounting to about $70,000,000 annually. Early in the year there was a depression in the diamond market of the world resulting from the financial stringency in America and the money situation in Europe. In order to maintain the price of diamonds the Premier company announced a considerable reduction in their monthly output and the Diamond Syndicate also came to the support of the market, deciding that there should be no reduction in the prices of stones. It was believed at that time that the blackness of American demand would be short-lived.

A Higher Herith Level.

"I have reached a higher health level since I began using Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes Jacob Springer, of West Franklin, Maine. "They keep my stomach, liver and bowels working just right." If these pills disappoint you on trial, money will be refunded at all druggists 25c.

J. C. Tojacquire More Railroad.

Macon, Ga., March 4.—Chairman McLendon of the Georgia Railroad Commission has made public a signed statement in which he gives reasons for his conclusions that E. H. Harriman will transfer his Central of Georgia stock to the Illinois Central and make the Georgia Central a part of the latter system. Mr. McLendon says that President Hanson, of the Georgia Central, appeared before his board November 8, 1907 "and stated that by direction of E. H. Harriman he appeared before the commission to say that while the stock of the Central, all except a few shares stood on the books of the company in the names of Oakleigh Thorne and Marsden J. Perry it in fact was owned by E. H. Harriman having been purchased by him on June 16, 1907 from the Southern Railway Company for $3,000,000. Thorne and Perry acting merely as his agents, and receiving for their service a fee or commission of 5 per cent.

President Hanson further said that Mr. Harriman had purchased the stock with the intention of transferring it to the Illinois Central, but that as his control of the Illinois Central was then in litigation, it was his (Harriman's) desire that the Georgia Railroad Commission would not give out to the public what his purpose was until after the election of directors of Illinois Central an event then scheduled for December 18, as I now recollect. This election was postponed from time to time and was finally held this week in Chicago and Mr. Harriman, having elected his directors, the presumption is that the Central of Georgia stock will become the property of the Illinois Central."

MOST IMPORTANT MEASURES PUT TO SLEEP.

Recent Legislature Passed a Few Good Bills and Did Not Pass Several.

The most prominent measures that were put to sleep and failed of passage at the session just closed are:

Extension of county unit local option law to every county and abolishment of exemption of cities of first four classes as separate units. The bill passed the House by a large majority but could not muster sufficient strength in the Senate.

McClure tobacco bill to place tobacco industry under police power of the State. This measure which was aimed at the so-called tobacco trust, was killed in the upper branch after it had swept everything before it in the House.

Repeal of the Crock Dog Tax law which provides for a $1 tax on each dog. A substitute allowing one dog free and a fifty-cent tax on all other passed the House but never got any further than its second reading in the Senate. Over a score of dog law repeal bills were introduced in both branches.

Republican redistricting measures, providing for the reapportionment of the State into Congressional and legislative districts which died in committee.

Curtain Bill providing for a change in the code relating to the venue of action in libel cases. The purpose of the bill the passage of which was asked by every newspaper in the State was to change the present libelous law which gives the right to a person to sue a newspaper in any county in the State and confine the action for libel to the county in which the plaintiff resides or the newspaper is published or in the county in which the alleged libel was committed. This bill passed the Senate with only one dissenting vote, but was held up by the Rules Committee until it was too late to get through, although it would have passed by practically a unanimous vote.

Wyatt bill, regulating telephone, telegraph and express companies and placing them under the jurisdiction of the Kentucky Railroad Commission to fix rates, tolls and charges. The measure passed the Senate after a hard fight but was prevented from getting its third reading in the House.

Bills reducing the present State tax rate and providing for a two-cent rate and providing for a two-cent-a-mile passenger rate on railroad in this State never got past the committees to which they were referred.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, brain failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. I kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisonous blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail, Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

There is no reason why Cleveland should have been the oil center of the world. There are no oil wells there, and shipping facilities are no better than a dozen others so far as oil is concerned. It was simply John D. Rockefeller. He wanted to live there and his personality, his individuality, brought the oil to him in pipe lines.

There is no reason Boston should be the shoe manufacturing center of the world. No hides are there—they are all shipped from the West. Simply some man who knew how to make shoes on a large scale wanted to live there and his success started others along the same line.

MILDEST WINTER IN HISTORY.

Weather Bureau Says It Has Been Unique

Seven Degrees Above The Lowest Point Reached by the Mercury.

In point of the absence of intense cold the winter of 1907-1908 has been the mildest ever recorded by the weather department. While there are other winters on record which show a larger number of degrees of heat during the ninety days of the winter months, none equaled the winter just passed in point of evenness of temperature.

Although it has not so seemed at times, a steady temperature has been maintained from day to day throughout the entire period, and as is the case of events in scores of years for this territory, the thermometer did not once reach zero. The coldest weather of the year was on February 2, when the thermometer fell to 7 degrees above zero. This is considered a remarkably placid performance of the elements.

While the winter just passed shows only a few immaterial degrees of temperature more than the normal heat and could have been so evenly distributed that no discomfort whatever has been experienced from weather inconsistencies. Other winters which have been record-breakers for the total number of degrees of heat during the season have been interspersed at times with intensely cold weather, a discomfort that the past winter has inflicted at no time.

Contrary to what might be expected from the unusually beautiful weather, sickness has been prevalent and deaths from pneumonia numerous.

Man Who Shaves Loses His God Given Beauty.

Dr. Wendell, a noted German authority, has declared that God intends man to be more beautiful than women. Among birds and beasts it is the male who always has the extra adornment. The peacock is gorgeous, while its consort is plain and humble in appearance. Whiskers, says Dr. Wendell, gives a man a great advantage over women in the beauty line.

That women have reached a point of physical development where they are generally considered as better looking than men is due, he claims, to the greater care they take of themselves and the time they give to personal adornment.

All men need to do to win the beauty prize is to give more time and attention to their appearance and let their whiskers grow full and free. The only men who claim that they knew this all along are the star matinee actors.

Your Town--It is up to You.

Don't sit around and damn your town.

A town is just as good as the man who damns it. Every town is just what the citizens want it to be.

A desire on the part of a people for a better town is a prayer that it always answered.

The advantages of one town over another are the results of the people rather than natural conditions.

In any event, it was the people who first saw the natural advantages—frequently some one individual saw them first.

There is no reason why Cleveland should have been the oil center of the world. There are no oil wells there, and shipping facilities are no better than a dozen others so far as oil is concerned. It was simply John D. Rockefeller. He wanted to live there and his personality, his individuality, brought the oil to him in pipe lines.

There is no reason Boston should be the shoe manufacturing center of the world. No hides are there—they are all shipped from the West. Simply some man who knew how to make shoes on a large scale wanted to live there and his success started others along the same line.

There is no physical reason why Chicago should have been the beef packing center. It might as well have been St. Louis simply old Phil Armour wanted to live there.

In nearly every one you visit you hear a resident say: "Aw, this ain't nothin' but an overgrown country town."

The resident of any town who makes such a statement wears whiskers and boots in his own heart.

Of course, if your town isn't sporty enough for you, why, you can move; that isn't the town's fault.

If you get too sporty you'll have to move, too.

Cincinnati is still the mercantile supply point for all territory south of Mason & Dixon's line. Years ago, at the winding of the river traffic, it was about to give place to Louisville and Memphis. The citizens got busy and the great Southern railroad [This railroad was once a dream in one individual's mind. They called him a dreamer. Yet his dream saved the town.

You can hear people of the West in mercantile, industrial artistic and scientific pursuits saying: "If we were only in Chicago we could get this or that." In Chicago you hear people say: "If we were only in New York." When you are in New York you hear them say: "If only we were in London or Paris." Chicago, New York, London or Paris are simply the results of their citizens taking the material at hand and doing the best they could with it—just as you can do.

Any place is what the men who live in it make it.

If your town is not to your liking, get busy; it's up to you.

The first process in the improvement of any town is to get rid of the men who are damning it.

Take Your Choice.

Have you ever almost run into some one on the street, and then dodge from side to side for half a minute, vainly endeavoring to pass, while the other person by some strange fatality blocked your every move by trying to pass you in the same way?

Such was the recent experience of a young man in Portland Maine. He and a strange young woman had been going through this performance for several seconds, when his unwilling visual was staggered him by saying:

"Well, hurry up! Which is it to be—a walk or a two-step?"—Woman's Home Companion for April.

CUPID OVER WORKED IN ISTHMUS OF PANAMA

Utterly Impossible For Woman to Remain Single Unless She Has Heart of Stone

Panama is one place where leap year is not needed. Miss Helen Varior Boswell who organized the women's club on the isthmus, at the instance of the government told the members of the Portia Club:

"Cupid is tremendously overworked down there," said Miss Bosworth. "It is impossible to keep a woman single at one of the hospitals they told me that they had lost seventeen nurses by matrimony from April to June, and sent word to the State that they positively would not take young nurses and very plain ones must be sent. The nurses become engaged to the men returning to Panama on the way down on the steamers."

"Everything is provided for the married—quarters, houses, furniture drinking water, and there is nothing to get but food and clothing. A wife is a very comfortable adjunct to a man's life, and the bachelor quarters are being constantly depleted. A man in Panama gets about twice the money he would here for the same work and there is no way to spend money. I think that is one reason it has been hard for the women. It is a very good place to save."

A Wonderful Tree.

The carabuba, palm of Brazil is said to be the world's most useful tree. It gives everything from medicine to cattle food. Its roots make a valuable drug, a blood purifier. Its timber takes a high polish and is in demand among cabinet makers for fine work. The sap becomes wine or vinegar according to the way it is prepared and starch and sugar are also obtained from this sap. The fruit of the tree is a cattle food, the nut is a good coffee substitute and the pith makes corks.

Unhappy Marriage

The universal expectation of married lives will always be happy ones. Deluded dreamers! They imagine that they are different from other people, and that when they enter the portal of matrimony, love peace and prosperity will ever be their attendants. Such ones had better by far consider themselves the same as others, but form iron resolutions that will keep them from dangerous coasts upon which so many have been wrecked and ruined. Unhappy marriage depend upon many causes—Previous to marriage, many try to appear more intellectual, more amiable, or more accommodating than they really are. Depend upon it, that love brought in to existence by a moonlight stroll strengthened by deceit and fashionable displays, and finally consummated through the influence of intriguing friends, will fade in after life almost as far as the flowers which compose the bridal wreath.

Revision Up as Well as Down.

Expressing the belief that the Tariff will be revised at a special session of Congress following immediately upon the inauguration, Representative Dalsell of Pennsylvania said, in his recent speech on the floor of the House:

"The tariff will be revised up or down as may be necessary to make it really protective."

If the tariff plank in the platform of the national Republican convention makes any declaration at all on the sub-

Poor Lo Signs With His Thumb.

When Poor Lo makes an agreement with Uncle Sam nowadays merely making his mark in the middle of his name written by some one else does not go any more. Instead his thumb print is attached to the paper. Lo developed a poor memory about signature made by some one else. Usually after a few months he would swear he never made the disputed mark.

In 1905 Indian Commissioner Leupp devised the thumb print signature plan. From the date of its adoption it has been a winner. Lo attaches great importance to his thumb print. He never disowns it. He is proud of the fact there is only one like it in the world. It cannot be counterfeited, neither can it be denied. Uncle Sam's as pleased as Poor Lo.

The agreement with the Indians of the Rosebud reservation in South Dakota, made in January, 1907 was signed with finger prints.

The "pure food law" is designed by the Government to protect the public from injurious ingredients in both food and drugs. It is beneficial both to the public and to the conscientious manufacturer. Ely's Cream Balm, a successful remedy for cold in the head, nasal catarrh, hay fever, etc., containing no injurious drugs meets fully the requirements of the new law, and that fact is prominently stated on every package. It contains none of the injurious drugs which are required by the law to be mentioned on the label. Hence you can use it safely.

MUST NOW HIDE THE BOOZE JUGS

Must be Encased In Paper Covering When Shipped.

Express Companies Issue Orders to Prevent Further Criticism of Such Shipment.

After the first of next month the express companies will refuse to accept shipments of liquor in jugs consigned to the South, or to prohibition communities unless the jugs are encased in corrugated paper or wooden boxes. Official orders to this effect have been issued and the shippers of liquor notified.

The order was first issued from the headquarters of the Southern Express Company which touches all the principal points in the South, but the other large express companies are expected to issue similar orders in a few days. The official order reads: "Liquor in Jugs—Refuse unless packed in wood or in corrugated boxes; not more than one jug must be packed in a corrugated box."

This order was issued it is said, for the purpose of the appearance of things. Under the law the express companies are compelled to accept shipments of liquor consigned to prohibition communities, as such shipments if two states are involved, are interstate commerce, therefore not under the control of the police powers of regulations of such local communities. The rapid advance of prohibition has proved a gold mine to the express companies for since the saloon and liquor house has been abandoned those desiring their "licker" secure a plentiful supply through shipments via the express companies.

Since Georgia has gone dry nearly all of the wholesale liquor distributing houses in that state have moved to either Chattanooga, Tenn., on the immediate north, or to Jacksonville, Fla., on the south. Most of them went to Chattanooga, where last reports showed 60 have been established. Every one of those houses is shipping tremendous amounts of liquor into Georgia and the great bulk by express.

The express companies have found that much of this liquor is shipped in naked jugs and in many of the smaller country towns, following the arrival of the train the stations more resemble a "jug" house than a railroad station. But a far worse feature is the fact that most of this "jug" whiskey goes to the negroes and it has come to be a common sight to see a parade of negroes, each with a broad grin and a jug of whiskey leaving the railroad station. This has caused much unfavorable comment to be made against the express companies and it is to avoid this that the order was issued. The order makes no pretense that the shipment must be disguised by a false marking, and is not operative that way, but is designed to avoid the suggestion that is ever present with the naked jug, the officials say.

This order becomes effective on April 1. There was some disposition on the part of the shippers to construe it to be a ruse of the express company to add to the weight of the package and some complaints were made on that score. The reason for the issuance is to avoid the brazen appearance of law breaking that a jug would personify in a prohibition community.

Most of this jug trade is for the negroes, and it must be remembered that in the South a large element in the passage of prohibition is to separate the negro from whiskey. When the negro is seen carrying a jug away from a railroad station or when the station platform is adorned by a number of jugs it is not a slight calculated to bring favorable comment or feeling on the part of the good citizen toward our company.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, dependent, frequent headaches, pain or distressing "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "rising" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or so surely as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

natural warmth as is the case when a woman becomes run down and weakened then artificial heat must be resorted to.

To give the necessary heat treatment use flannel sheets instead of lined or cotton says the New York Evening Telegram. The former may be very thin and soft in quality but they serve to keep the natural warmth in the body and after a time to increase it. Soft warm bed shoes coming well above the ankles, will probably be sufficient if the feet alone are cold.

SHAKE IT WELL IN THE BOTTLE

Noted Authority Gives a Simple Prescription.

Tells the Readers of This Paper
How to Prepare it at Home.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weathers is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidney fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

CALEB POWERS IN NO SENSE A CANDIDATE.

Issues Card Denying That He Ever Was a Candidate For Congress.

Last Friday Caleb Powers issued to the press the following card:

To the Public: I have never said publicly or privately, by litter or otherwise that I was a candidate for Congress in the Eleventh district. I have never been a candidate and I am not now a candidate. It is true that I wrote the members of the congressional committee asking that no nomination be made earlier than September 15, in the hope that by that time I would be in a situation to become a candidate.

A majority of the committee, many of whom Congressman Edwards has appointed to positions and who are under obligations to him, called a primary election for June 6. If but two are candidates the entrance fee will be about $3,600 each. I have not the money to enter said primary nor the physical strength to prosecute a canvass for Congress even if I were in a situation to do it, which I am not. I will therefore not be a candidate for Congress before said primary under any state of case. If I ever regain my freedom I will first seek health not office. Believing that but one fight at a time is all I should engage in, but thanking my many friends in the Eleventh district and elsewhere for the loyalty and devotion to my interest.

Very truly,
CALEB POWERS.

What Becomes of Them.

Philosophers arise upon all sides—peacemakers, elastics, stoics, pythagoreans, epicureans, positivists, empiricists and intuitionists. They arise and flap their shimmering wings and they fade into inert innocuousness. The tidal wave of time—clammy, cruel and inevitable—surges over their forgotten hiers. Their souls are absorbed in the thin ether of the illimitable cosmos. They speak their little pieces, dodge the ever-burting egg and then shut up forever. Alas!

A Case for Misery.

"I have found a cure for the misery malaria poison produces," says R. M. James, of Louellen, S. C. "It's called Electric Bitters, and come in 50 cent bottles. It breaks up a case of chills or a bilious attack in almost no time; and it puts yellow jaundice clean out of commission." This great tonic medicine and blood purifier gives quick relief in all stomach, liver and kidney complaints and the misery of lame back. Sold under guarantee at all druggists.

Woman a Great Linguist.

The record of being the world's greatest all-round linguist is claimed by Miss Mary E. S. Colton, a resident of Easthampton, Mass. She can speak and read forty foreign languages.

Prior to her appearance in the field as a candidate for linguistic honors, the record for the greatest number of languages spoken by any one person was thirty-three.

Miss Colton has mastered some of the most difficult tongues in the world. Among these are Chinese, Pali, Avestan, Sanscrit, Hebrew, Syrian, Assyrian, Arabic and Persian. She also speaks and reads Latin, Greek, and all the modern European languages.

She studied languages at Yale and at Radcliffe, and latterly went into the far East to add to her familiarity with its tongues. Recently she was in the mountains of Afghanistan, where the first articulate speech is supposed to have been developed and where Sanscrit is believed to have originated and become the mother of all languages.—Pennsylvania Press.

TWO MEETINGS OF TOBACCO LEADERS

Believed That Meetings Were Held With View of Reuniting
the Factions.

Two tobacco meetings, one participated in by the Home warehouse people, and the other by the "regular" Equity, were held in Owensboro Friday night. They were not generally attended meetings, but evidently conferences of leaders. One of the meetings was held at the Roby house, the other at the Columbus hotel and there is not known to have been any connection between them.

Those who were in attendance decline to make any statement as to what was done at the meetings. George M. Taylor, secretary of the Home Warehouse association and S. B. Lee, national secretary of the A. S. of E., were seen Saturday and asked for a statement. Each of them said that nothing could be given out at this time but that a statement would be made in a short time.

It is believed that the meetings were held for the consideration of a plan for reuniting the factions.—Owensboro Messenger.

Will Raise Tobacco.

Hardin county raises very little tobacco. In fact it is the smallest crop. There is no Society of Equity within its bounds, but this year promises to mark quite a change in this respect. Small growers of the weed have realized very fine profits, some of them getting as much as $200 per acre for the crop. This has greatly encouraged others and if present prices continue in two years Hardin will be a tobacco county good and strong. The land is well adapted to the growth of tobacco and all you have to do is to show the Hardin county farmer that there is money in it and he is in it. We expect the average this year will be more than double and we would advise our small farmers especially to try a few acres.—Elizabethtown News.

Recent experiments abroad have shown that the yellow and green colors possessed by certain caterpillars are due to coloring matter derived from the food and passed through the blood of the spinners. By impregnating leaves with artificial colors the experimenters caused some species of caterpillars to produce silk of bright orange-yellow and fine rose hues. By the aid of the spectroscopic presence and nature of colored pigments in the blood of the little animals were established.

FRIDAY, MARCH 27.

Who prevented the repeal of the dog tax?

The advent of spring evidently doesn't set well with the Hartford Herald. A liver tonic however might relieve it.

Will the Hartford Herald tell Mr. Thomas, and its readers, why it charged Judge Owen's supporters for space in 1903, or will it again side-step.

The Hartford Herald frankly admits that The Republican is "the" paper of Hartford. Thanks Frankie and Heble, you are more generous than usual.

The penitentiaries are to remain in politics, an asset of the old Beckham machine. While the charitable institutions are made non partisans, they would soon pass under Republican control anyway.

Even Taft can defeat your only candidate, Mr. Herald editors, W. J. Bryan. The only fear we had was that your party might have a field interval, and get divorced from the millstone.

The editorial columns of the Hartford Herald last week were filled with quotations from this paper, which was a great improvement to the dull common place tone usual to that department of the Herald, and was no doubt greatly appreciated by its readers.

The Hartford Herald in one breath declares that this paper completely "squeezed" John Henry Thomas, and in the next says it wonders if he wasn't making it a little warm for us. However, the Herald don't mind a little inconsistency like that. It has served its party bosses unflinchingly, until it has no mind of its own. We wonder if Mr. Thomas did not make it a "little warm" for the Herald. It completely overlooked the meat of his article in the last issue of this paper, his reference to the treatment accorded the supporters of Judge Owen by the Herald in 1903.

Of course no Republican in Ohio county will pay any attention to the false charge made by the Hartford Herald, that we are attempting "dictatorship," in the matter of choice for President. For more than twenty years this paper has defended Republicans of Ohio county from attacks from this same sheet, and nothing could please it more than to see us discredited. However, we claim to be in better position to know the weaknesses of some of our candidates than the great majority of Ohio county Republicans, and would be remiss in our duty if we neglected to warn them.

What will Ohio county Democrats think of the following dig by their organ, the Hartford Herald, at poor old Senator McCreary whom the Beckham machine buffed off the bridge? "There is this difference between Otis James and Senator McCreary—the latter suffered himself to be repeatedly voted for in the race for the U.S. Senatorship at Frankfort when he must have known that it was merely a play to the galleries, and the former put a stop to this sort of thing on his own behalf and quickly sent word that he wanted the regularly nominated candidate—Mr. Beckham—elected. Quite a distinction and a difference." Senator McCreary, who made speeches for Hager and Beckham, after his shameful treatment, was at Washington attending to his official duties. The Herald, however, thinks he should have gone down to Frankfort and lashed those who voted for him into line. This is only an evidence of the abject servitude to party machine, no matter how corrupt, to which years of cringing have brought the Herald.

The Hartford Republican has no personal interests at stake in the Republican choice for a Presidential candidate. Neither of its editors expect to apply for Federal appointment. Our only purposes in expressing a preference is as to availability, especially for Kentucky, and to show appreciation to a neighbor State, which has done more for Kentucky Republicans than all other States combined. Other papers in the State are doing the same in the interest of Mr. Taft, notably, Morgantown News, Lexington Leader, Third District Republican and Glasgow Republican. Every man has a right to his opinion, and a right to a voice in his convention. Believing that Vice President Fairbanks is the strongest and best equipped man for the position and that Kentucky Republicans are under peculiar obligations to him, we shall continue to support him notwithstanding we are so vigorously opposed by the Hartford

Herald. The great interest which that paper is manifesting in behalf of Mr. Taft ought to appeal to Ohio county Republicans who will no doubt remember the past kindnesses received at its hands, especially in county and State campaigns when it flouts the negro question, and abuses Powers and Taylor.

LOUISVILLE HERALD UNFAIR.

The Louisville Herald seems imbued with a determination to do some injury to the reputation of the President of the American Society of Equity. Some time ago it published an editorial, based on an interview which never took place, severely censuring Mr. Barnett. It refused to make a correction when politely requested to do so in a letter to Mr. Newman, its editor. Last Monday night the paper sent a reporter to the hotel in Louisville at which he was stopping, who said he had been sent to get a statement from Mr. Barnett. The reporter was treated with respect and his questions answered. Tuesday appeared an interview in which Mr. Barnett was made to say things he never thought of saying, and those he did say in a number of instances, were left out. Just to show how accurate the Herald can be, he was reported as being from "Oxford," and was made to say that there are only 300 members of the Society of Equity in Ohio county, when in fact he said nothing about how many members are in Ohio county. Wednesday it treats Mr. Barnett to another editorial castigation for talking. Mr. Barnett sought no talk with the Herald nor any other paper in Louisville. Had he refused to talk the Herald would no doubt have said he was acting suspiciously, and that he was contemplating a run. In its attempt to convict the Society of Equity of connection with night riders, it quotes from a Cincinnati press dispatch, which confirmed a sale of all the burley tobacco, the following:

"A prominent member of the society in confirming the agreement to-day, said: 'It is all settled. The cruel war is over and we have won. There will be no more night riding or violence, but there will be no 1908 crop of tobacco.'"

In the same issue in which this editorial is printed, the Herald prints a denial of the whole story of the sale. Of course the fact that the name of the "prominent member of the society" is left out makes no material difference to the Herald. It can convict people as well without names as with them. Now, in order to get at the bottom of this story, Mr. Barnett will give the Herald $50 for the name of a prominent member of the society who made the above statement. This paper has been a very good friend to the Louisville Herald under its present management. It has even used our editorials as advertisements for the Herald. The fact that it would seek Mr. Barnett for an interview, and then criticize him for talking, is calculated to create the suspicion that it is not actuated by the best of motives to say the least of it.

Infant's Body Sent Through Mail.

Denver, Col., March 23.—Postmaster C. Olerach, of Portales, N. M., has reported to E. L. McKee, chief post-office inspector of the Rocky Mountain region, the discovery of the body of a dead infant in the mails. The package was addressed to Roy W. Carr, Roswell, N. M., and bore the return address of Ida Rhodes Carr, Woodstock, Ill. Under the cover of the package was the following, unsigned:

"I did not know what else to do. Burn or do something right away. Do not open."

Postmaster Olerach turned the body over to the authorities at Portales. Inspector McKee states that an investigation will be made.

Not Due to Night Riders.

Harrodsburg, Ky., March 23.—The report sent out from Harrodsburg that night riders last night whipped a farmer and burned his house in this county is entirely without foundation, and the residents of that section of the county are indignant that such a report should have been sent out.

A small tenement house on the farm of J. L. Tobin, and occupied by a negro, was burned, having caught from a defective flue, and there was not the least intimation that night riders had anything to do with the burning. There has been practically no trouble from the night riders in Mercer county. A few farmers have received notes warning them not to raise a crop of tobacco this year. All of those who had contemplated growing a crop have abandoned the idea, and it is not thought now there will even be any more notes sent.

The Hartford Magisterial District Union will meet at Beaver Dam Ky. Friday March 27th, 1908 at one p. m.

Mr. C. M. Barnett National President and Mr. M. F. Sharp State organizer have been invited to meet with us.

Let each local in said district send delegates as business of importance is likely to come before us Respectfully
C. L. WOODWARD Pres.

AGREEMENT MAY BE REACHED

Miners and Operators Appear Confident of Outcome.

Present Scale Likely to Be Continued In Force For Another Year.

Confident now that an agreement will be reached and that a strike will be averted, the members of the Western Kentucky Coal Operators' Association and the delegates to the district convention of the United Mine Workers of America will go into joint conference to-morrow morning says Tuesday's Louisville Times. Both sides have appointed their scale committees and each side practically has its schedule of agreement ready to be submitted.

The coal operators were in session last night at the Old Inn for more than four hours, but finally reached an agreement as to the action to be taken in the joint conference to-morrow. For a time however, it appeared as if the operators would not act in accord as some of the members favored one thing and some another. Some of the operators insisted that the men be offered a reduction while others urged the adoption for a year of the present scale of wages.

From a reliable source it was learned that the operators will agree to adopt the present wage scale but they want several changes made in the rules and agreements governing the conduct of their employees, regulations at the mines and other minor matters.

The Scale Committee and Advisory Committee from the operators is composed as follows:

M. M. Bardwell, of the Taylor Coal Company; C. M. Marks, of the Greenville Coal Company; T. P. Wright, of the Crescent Coal Company; G. A. Baker, of the Kentucky Coal Mining Company and William Clendaniel of the Green River Coal Co. While the members of the Advisory Board are W. D. McElheny of the Central Coal and Iron Company; W. G. Duncan, of the Central Coal and Iron Company; Hywell Davis of the Dovey Coal Company and W. W. Bridges of the Black Diamond Coal Company.

L. P. Barnard, president of the Western Kentucky Mine Operators' Association and D. Stuart Miller, secretary, are ex-officio members of both bodies.

The miners' Scale Committee is composed of Albert Leach of Taylor Mines; McElroy Trout of Curlew Jy Mines; McElroy Trout of Curlew Jy Mines; McElroy Trout of Curlew Jy Mines; T. Millard, of Williams Mines; J. P. Everly of Dekoven, and John E. Bethel, of Hillsdale with President Smith Secretary C. M. Carter and National Board Member C. Barnaby as advisory members.

The Mine Workers' Convention met at 9 o'clock this morning at the City Hall, at which time the report of the Scale Committee was submitted. President W. O. Smith said he was satisfied that the committee's report would be adopted although it was possible that there would be a number of minor changes. Mr. Smith declined to give the contents of the report but it was said to favor the adoption of the present agreement for the next twelve months. If at the expiration of that time the non-union miners of Hopkins county are organized then the operators are to pay the union scale of wages. The present wage scale is about 10 per cent less than the scale adopted by the national convention of the United Mine Workers.

It was stated this afternoon that the report of the Miners Scale Committee would be adopted without any material change though it makes a number of changes and some of considerable importance.

It is expected that the miners demands will cause some clash when the miners and operators meet in joint conference to-morrow. The changes do not relate to wages but to certain rules and regulations which it is believed that the operations will insist being modified.

No Extra Pay For County Attorney.
Frankfort, Ky., March 24.—Claude B. Terrill, County Attorney of Trimble county loses in opinion handed down to-day by Judge Hobson fees which were allowed him by the Fiscal Court. The court holds that the County Attorney must do all the work of that office without extra compensation, and he cannot be given special fees for a suit to collect taxes. Terrill sued the Richmond Distillery Company and recovered taxes amounting to $1,351, of which he was allowed 25 per cent. The court holds Terrill was entitled only to have his necessary expenses paid.

ADDRESSES TO- BACCO GROWERS

Our Narrows Correspondent
Sees Danger in Lawlessness

Fight Won if Public Sympathy is Not Thrown Away at
This Time.

To the Tobacco Growers of Kentucky.

Your State is in the throes of a revolution that threatens whole-sale destruction of property and life, and irreparable injury to the whole interests of our people. The police power of the commonwealth stands powerlessly helpless before the accumulating fury of the mob.

The military at best can but warn by the dying embers of the product of the wasteful torch or guard with solemn reverence the passing funeral cortege, and the local authorities are paralyzed with fear, or inactive from reluctant sympathy.

Such conditions cannot long endure. Either the friends or the enemies of the tobacco growers must determine it. By which of these agencies will you have it done? But first a little inquiry into the cause of these disturbances. The tobacco growers had exhausted their lands, robbed their children of education and their families of the meaneast comforts of life to pour floods of wealth into the tills of the tobacco trust. Awakened at last through the education of organization to the enormity of the crime, of which they had been the unhappy victims, human passion broke through their coarser members into frenzied violence. Without in any way condoning lawlessness, I hope it is not a crime to see in this but another example of men working out their destiny by that law that knows no appeal. Speaking for no organization for no man, but for myself I favor relief to the tobacco growers from their soulless and conscienceless robbers by the least violent means possible to attain it. But the attention of the world has now been called, with thundering emphasis, to the growers' oppression and how firmly the sympathy of the public has been won is more than proven by the immunity from punishment by the knights of the gun, the hoe and the torch, but enough, popular sympathy is strained to the breaking point.

Another day of these violent excesses, that are discarding even the decency of the mob, and public sympathy will be turned to public wrath and all is lost. The jails and penitentiaries will be filled with new and old offenders, and every tobacco grower in the state must share in the popular odium.

Public sympathy, without which no labor union ever won a fight, once thoroughly outraged will be slow to subject itself to the second insult. The night riders have played a violent lawless but maybe a necessary part in the royal battle between the growers and the trust but the final issue approaches and if the day is saved to the growers it must be saved at once and saved by those growers who have taken no part but who have tolerated the outrages and you alone can restore peace to the state. They have operated by your tolerance and without criticizing such tolerance, I say the time has come to call off your dogs of war. What the governor cannot do, what Washington will not do, you can do in a day.

Perhaps your enemies will see in my position a public indictment of you. If so I indict myself along with you and I am proud of the indictment, and yet I am only stating what every one knows to be true and few will admit.

I repeat the fight is approaching issue. Popular wrath or your own conservative conduct must determine the result. Will you set about a methodical practical solution and win the long goodwill of the state and nation or will you allow a few of your turbulent fellows to bring your cause to ruin and your avocation to disgrace?

Let every tobacco grower who has not indulged in these disorders publicly announce to-morrow that order must be restored and that he must offer his personal assistance to the authorities to suppress it and the stillness of to-morrow night will not be broken by the stealthy tread of the terror-striking night bands.

J. H. THOMAS.

Millinery Suggestions.

The mere announcement that Spring Hats are ready is enough to make us think of sunshine, flowers, bright, shining faces, made bright perhaps by the purchase of one of our milliner's creations, modeled after new and up-to-date Imported Patterns.

Our Miss Moseley is better prepared to suit your wants in a new Spring Hat than ever before. All the novelties are here—the big Sailors, the "Merry Widow" Hat, and some of the prettiest braided and Leghorn Hats ever shown.

Formal opening April 3 and 4, but will be pleased to take your order at any time.

HIS FIRST THOUGHT.

President McKinley's Devotion to His Invald Wife.

In the early days of the Spanish war Mr. McKinley and Mark Hanna were engaged in a close and serious evening conference in the president's room. The time ran along to the hour of 9. Suddenly those busy in the outer room saw President McKinley rise and leave the apartment, saying, "Wait a few moments, Mark." He was gone about twenty minutes. In the meantime Senator Hanna walked restlessly between the two rooms, speaking a word or two to the secretaries and showing plainly that he shared with the president a feeling of deep anxiety as to the outcome of the military proceedings. He remarked on the fact of great shortage of supplies and from his words and bearing revealed to the assembled few in that outer room that the president and his closest advisers were lying awake nights and working to make up for the deficiencies of the military situation.

When the president returned he and Senator Hanna resumed their anxious consultation. Then the president's secretary remarked to one who was near him:

"I suppose you wonder why President McKinley got up so suddenly and left without a word to any one. You saw how anxious he was about the military situation. Even that would not cause him to break away from what has come to be the custom of his early evening."

"About the same time every night, when he hears a signal from the other side, he knows that Mrs. McKinley is ready to retire and wishes to see him. No matter how busy he may be nor how deeply engaged in any subject, he invariably drops everything on the instant and goes to their own apartments. There he sits by the bedside and reads a chapter in the Bible to Mrs. McKinley. Then he waits a few moments until she is quiet, tiptoes back to the door, comes over here to the office and without a word takes up the thread of his work and keeps it up until toward midnight."—Chicago Tribune.

FLEET ANIMALS.

The Wonderful Speed Developed by the Greyhound.

Representations of the greyhound appear upon sculptures over 3,000 years old. There is no doubt that it is one of the very oldest fixed types of dog and the most universal in its distribution. India, Arabia, Persia, are among the countries that for ages past had the greyhound. Later there was exhibited in England a greyhound from Afghanistan—a shaggy form suited to that mountain land. Of course these dogs are not all exactly greyhounds in the western sense, but they are essentially the same in type; they are "gazehounds," long legged, light built dogs, bred to run their game by sight and not by scent and to overtake it not by wearing it down, but by sheer speed and skill of running. How this type was evolved affords much interesting speculation.

"A greyhound is probably the fastest creature that moves upon the earth," says a breeder of these animals. "It is on record that a greyhound beat the famous race horse Flying Childers. An absolute trial between horse and greyhound is difficult to bring off, because, while the horse can be ridden at top speed, it is impossible to insure that the greyhound will run 'all he can.' But a dog that can start, say, fifty yards behind a hare and overtake it within another fifty, and this is about what a greyhound does, must surely be faster than anything else that lives or has his parallel only among the birds."

The same writer says of greyhound coursing: "One used to hear that it was a 'pouchoise,' not a 'gentleman's sport.' But I have heard men who follow both declare that they prefer coursing to racing, and I can quite understand it. In coursing there is the absolute certainty that all is above suspicion of anything 'shady.' Every time a dog is run he is honestly run to win or divide the stakes. You cannot 'pull' a greyhound."—Chicago News.

The New Cook's Way.

A new cook was in the kitchen, and the mistress was trying to be pleased with the way she served dinner. The salad was especially unappetizing, with large, coarse green lettuce leaves instead of the crisp, white little hearts the family was accustomed to. "What did you do to the lettuce?" mildly inquired the lady of the house after dinner. "Sure, I washed it all good," replied the new cook. "But the small white part?" persisted the mistress. "Oh, the core, ye mean. I threw it away, of course."—New York Press.

Happy Tears.

A good cry is a solace to many women. It steadies the nerves and, added to a cup of tea and an interesting story, forms their idea of supreme happiness. Arising from the perusal of their books with red eyes, swelled features and a sopping pocket handkerchief, they feel their time has not been wasted.—Lady Violet Greville in London Chronicle.

A Little Ambiguous.

She—So sorry to hear of your motor accident! Enthusiastic Motorist—Oh, thanks! It's nothing. Expect to live through many more. She—Oh, but I trust not.—London Opinion.

A person is always startled when he hears himself seriously called old for the first time.—O. W. Holmes.

The Whirling Dervishes.

Those spirits on the hunt for "sensations" in Constantinople will wish to "take in" the dervishes. The whirling dervishes have a convent on the Grand Rue, where their circumnavigations may be witnessed at 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening for the admission of 10 cents. This weird performance personifies the solar system and is exactly ordered in all its phases. After preliminary circuits of the ring in single file to the discordant accompaniment of flute and tambourine the robes and turbans dervishes commence their turning. With arms outstretched, the right palm upward to beseech blessings, the left depressed to signify mercy bestowed, the head is bent upon the right shoulder. The rapid revolving upon the right heel is effected by employing the left toes as motive power. As the circling accelerates, the long white skirts dilate until they stand out stiff after the manner of the attenuated garment of the premiere danseuse. Very little space is allotted to each priest, and it seems strange that there are no collisions. The dance ceases in an hour or so with the men exhausted. —Travel Magazine.

Boys' Use of Barometers.

Every English schoolboy who can afford it has a barometer that he keeps hidden under his bed or in his trunk, for in all English schools barometers are strictly forbidden to the pupils. Why should they be forbidden? Why should they be desired? Through the autumn and winter the English schoolboy plays football every afternoon, weather permitting. He must play two hours each clear day. These two hours are taken off his recitations. They make his school tasks two hours lighter; hence when he knows beforehand that the next day will be clear he may spare himself two hours of useless study the night before. His barometer pointing to "fine" saves him a lot of toil. But when the instrument points to "change" then the schoolboy knows that there will be no football. Thus a boy with a barometer has a big advantage. He often sells weather predictions at a penny apiece.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Giants Not Long Lived.

Giants are not long lived, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in the American Magazine. "Of nearly 100 names recorded I have been able to find the ages at death of only eighteen, as follows:

Lewis Wilkins.....	23
The Giant Constantine.....	30
Charles Byrne, the Irish Giant.....	22
Cornelius McGrath.....	22
James Toller.....	24
Thomas Hasler.....	25
The Minnesota Giant.....	18
The Norfolk Giant.....	45
Patrick Cotter.....	45
Clerk in Bank of England.....	42
C. Munster.....	45
J. Winckelmeier.....	22
The Kentucky Giant.....	22
Lady Aama.....	18
S. Bolls.....	37
Peter Tucha.....	24
The Peruvian Giant.....	29
Antoniou of Syria.....	28

"This makes an average longevity of barely twenty-eight years, or only a third as many years as they had in the case of a giant living to a good old age is a thing unheard of."

America's First Book.

The first book printed in America was "The Ecceale (Spiritual) Para Flegar al Cielo" (Spiritual Ladder For Reaching Heaven). It was printed in the City of Mexico in the early part of 1537 by Juan Pablos on a press brought from Europe by Fra Julian de Zumerraga, first bishop of Mexico. The first attempt at a newspaper in America was the Mercurio Volante (Flying Mercury), Mexico, 1693. The first Indian school was founded in 1524, and industrial schools for Indians date back to 1543. "Half a century before our overland pony express was inaugurated there were regular monthly mails the length of Spanish-America from Paraguay to San Francisco, a little matter of 5,800 miles."—M. A. Lambing in Scottsdale Independent.

Hawker and Healer.

Rokitsansky, the father of the well known operatic singers, was professor of pathology at the Vienna university. Besides the two singers he had another couple of sons, who had acquired a certain celebrity as medical men. One day when the old professor was asked how his sons were getting on he replied, shaking his head: "You see, friends, two of them heal and the other two howl, and the howlers earn four times as much as the healers!"—London Standard.

The Philosophical Father.

The old man had finally succeeded in marrying off two of his seven daughters. "Your girls have been blessings," said the officiating clergyman after the double ceremony. "Yes," the old man huskily asserted, "they are the sort of blessings that brighten as they take their flight."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Couldn't Take the Job.

An inland graduate came to New York to seek employment. Through a friend he received an offer of a place as shipping clerk to a certain firm. In reply he wrote as follows: "I regret that I cannot accept your kind offer of a position as shipping clerk, but the fact is that I am always sick when on the water."—Success Magazine.

Persuasion.

"I can't marry you," she said. "You are old enough to be my father." "Don't hesitate on that account. Ten years from now nobody will suspect it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

There is always reason in the man for his good or bad fortune.—Emerson.

THE MYSTERY OF SLEEP.

No Man Knows When the Moment of Unconsciousness Comes.

There is a remarkable fact connected with sleep which must not be overlooked. The sleep of a human being, if we are not too busy to attend to the matter, always evokes a certain feeling of awe. Go into a room where a person is sleeping, and it is difficult to resist the sense that one is in the presence of the central mystery of existence. People who remember how constantly they see old Jones asleep in the club library will smile at this, but look quietly and alone even at old Jones and the sense of mystery will soon develop.

It is no good to say that sleep is only "moving" because it looks like death. The person who is breathing so loudly as to take away all thought of death causes the sense of awe quite as easily as the silent sleeper who hardly seems to breathe.

We see death aeldom, but were it more familiar we doubt if a corpse would inspire so much awe as the unconscious and sleeping figure—a smiling, irresponsible doll, flesh and blood, but a doll to whom in a second may be called a proud, active, controlling consciousness which will ride his body and his mental horse with a hand of iron, which will force that body to endure toil and misery and will make that mind, now wandering in paths of fantastic folly, grapple with some great problem or throw all its force into the ruling, the saving or the destruction of mankind. The corpse is only so much bone, muscle and tissue; the sleeping body is the house which a quick and eager master has only left for an hour or so.

Let any one who thinks sleep is not a mystery try to observe in himself the process by which sleep comes and to notice how and when and under what conditions he loses consciousness. He will, of course, utterly fail to put his finger on the moment of sleep coming, but in striving to get as close as he can to the phenomena of sleep he will realize how great is the mystery which he is trying to fathom.

A JAPANESE DINNER.

Plenty of Variety, but Too Much Salt For American Palates.

"I am afraid you won't like it," said the young Japanese baron. "You insisted, though, on a real Japanese dinner. So what was I to do?"

They seated themselves, the three girls and he, upon the green silk cushions placed on a parquetry floor about a little table a foot high. A Japanese servant entered with the tea, and the Japanese dinner began.

For first course there were sweet biscuits and ten—delicate tea of the April harvest, "first chop" tea, formerly served with cherry spoons and a poem for each guest.

Next came uesho, a salty soup, with which the national wine, called sake, was served in flat saucers.

The third course was a little raw fish, very salty and steeped in a sour and appetizing sauce. The guests, contrary to their expectation, found the raw fish no more difficult to eat than raw oysters. With this course went a salad of white chrysanthemums.

The elaborate fourth course consisted of boiled chestnuts and a paste of sharks' fins, quail roasted and hashed with preserved cherries and crawfish with eggs. These viands were all arranged decoratively on one large dish. The fifth course, also on one dish, was boiled bamboo shoots with soy, salted mushrooms and a cold boiled salmon and cold boiled perch, with pickled shoots of the ginger plant.

Next came a soup of seaweed, bitter, salty, decidedly good; next an assortment of nuts boiled in soy; next salted relishes; next delicious boiled rice, the grains as large as cherries, and, to conclude, tea again.

The young girls as they rose from their low cushions and limped about in the effort to get the stiffness out of their legs said that the Japanese dinner had been very good, really much better than they had counted on, but perhaps a little too salty for occidental taste.—Exchange.

A Shower Wedding.

"And you say when the heiress became the wife of the foreign nobleman was a shower wedding?" "I should say so. The bride wore a shower bouquet."

"Yes." "And then there was a shower of rice."

"My!" "Followed by a shower of congratulations and old shoes."

"Well, well! And how did it end up?" "Very embarrassing all round. The nobleman's creditors came around and presented a shower of bills."—Kansas City Independent.

As Good as the Zoo.

"Will you come with me to the zoo this afternoon?" "No, thank you; I would rather stay at home. My eldest daughter jumps like a wild goat, my youngest shrieks like a parrot, my son is as surly as a bear, my wife snaps like a dog, and my mother-in-law, who is a voracious tigress, says I am exactly like an orang outang. So, you see, I have no need to go to the zoo to see strange creatures."

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.

Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it are wrong. Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill.

This will soothe your quivering nerves. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sleeplessness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Please, to take, quick in results.

AN EXTRA SESSION

This May Be the Outcome of Flaming the County Unit Bill on the Shelf.

THERE IS STRONG TALK OF THIS

Governor Willson Is Said to Have Pronounced Views on Failure of Legislature to Enact Certain of His Favorite Measures—How the Kibosh Was Put on the County Bill.

Frankfort, Ky., March 10.—And now the county bill is dead, unless an extra session is called to pass it. The bill passed the house and would have passed the senate had it ever reached a vote, but a parliamentary ruse was adopted to prevent it ever reaching a vote. The few whisky Democrats in the senate hold the balance of power and they were willing to do anything to anybody or for anybody to defeat the county unit bill. The other Democrats were told that if they did not help kill the bill the whisky Democrats would unite with the Republicans and pass the Republican redistricting bills, the bills to oust all the Democrats from the offices at the prisons and asylums, and the bill authorizing grand juries of any county to investigate penal offenses in any other county in the state. This put the Democrats up against a tough proposition, for most of them wanted to vote for the unit bill. They had but one alternative, however, to let the Republicans have all the offices and the next legislature, or put the unit bill on the shelf. They put the unit bill on the shelf. Speaking of the county unit bill, there seems to be much apprehension as to the real meaning of the bill. The last legislature passed a county unit bill that applied to every county in the state except those containing cities of the first, second, third and fourth classes, these cities being given the right to vote on the local option question separately from the county in which they are situated. What is called the county unit bill this session is a bill to extend the provisions of the law passed two years ago, so that no city shall have the right to vote on the liquor question separately from the county. The cities claim that it is unjust to allow a county to vote away a big slice of their income and thereby force them to increase their tax rate, and that it is taxation without representation. The county people claim that the saloons in the cities affect the morals of the county and the country people ought to have the right to vote to close up the saloons. This is the bone of contention.

There is strong talk of an extra session being called by Governor Willson for the purpose of having the county unit bill enacted, and several other bills enacted, and some of the governor's close friends say he will call it. The governor himself remains silent, but the frequency with which he has urged the passage of these bills looks very much like he is in the frame of mind to order the extra session.

It was believed that no further school-book legislation would be necessary in Kentucky for many years, but the senate has just passed a bill on the subject, and the funny part about it is that no one seems to know just exactly what will be accomplished by it, though it is claimed that the only object is to give cities and towns more latitude than they now have in the adoption of school-books. The bill provides that there shall be no maximum price fixed for books as under the existing law, but that the price charged by the book companies for the books shall be no greater than that charged for books of the same quality sold in other states. An amendment offered by Senator Newman was adopted, providing that no maximum price shall be fixed for any particular book, but the prices on a series of books shall not be higher than the following: Spelling-books, 16 cents; readers, $1.90; arithmetics, $1; language lessons, 40 cents; writing books, 32 cents; composition, 60 cents; geography, $1.45; physiology, 85 cents; United States history, $1.20; history of Kentucky, 60 cents; civil government, 40 cents; grammars, 45 cents.

It is said here that Ginn & Co., of Chicago are pushing the bill and that the American Book company is fighting it, so the bill must be in the interest of a book company rather than in the interest of the schools. It developed in the argument in the senate that someone interested in the passage of the bill had, early in the session, forged a letter purporting to be signed by former State Superintendent Fuqua and mailed a copy to every member of the legislature. The spurious letter stated that legislation along the lines provided for in the above bill ought to be passed in the interest of better schools. Senator Linn read a letter from Prof. Fuqua, who is now in Texas, saying he never wrote such a letter and never heard of it, and that it was a base forgery. Strenuous efforts are being made to push the bill through the house, but it will take clever work to pass it.

The natural love of a Kentuckian for a racehorse was demonstrated in the senate a few days ago when the bill known as the Wilhelm anti-poolroom bill was up for passage. The bill was mainly intended to effectually put a stop to the betting on horse races in poolrooms, but it incidentally put a stop to betting on all racetracks in Kentucky. The senate was willing to stamp out the poolroom evil, but the abolishment of betting on racetracks meant there would be no more racing in this state, so the bill was amended by putting in the following section: "This act shall not apply to racetracks that are licensed by the state racing commission nor to trotting races that are conducted by a regularly organized association." Senator Jack Chinn made a speech for the amendment and said if it was not adopted the bill would destroy the breeding industry in Kentucky, that was worth many millions of dollars. Senator Burnam spoke along the same lines and said the men who trained and developed horses must have an incentive and that whenever a prize horse was developed it added to the value of all the horses in Kentucky; that poolrooms were vile places where the lower grades of people congregated the year round, and should be suppressed, while race meetings were attended by the best people accompanied by their wives and daughters, and was a festive holiday occasion that should not be abolished. The bill passed the senate by a vote of 33 to 4, and if it passes the house, as it is believed it will, poolrooms and hand-book betting on races will soon be a thing of the past.

The Crecelius tobacco bill has passed both the house and senate and is now in the hands of Governor Willson. It was thought by some that because Senator Burnam, who is a close friend of the governor's, opposed the bill so ardently in the senate, that probably the governor will veto it, but it is hardly probable he will do so. The bill provides a fine from $50 to $250 for anyone who sells his tobacco after he has pledged it or pooled it, and the same fine for anyone who knowingly buys pledged or pooled tobacco. The friends of the bill claim it will remove the cause for the "night riding," and therefore will effectually stop it. Senator Burnam said it was a dangerous thing to penalize the violation of a civil contract, and he believed the bill would not serve any good purpose. A companion bill to the Crecelius measure has also passed both houses. It provides a fine of from $100 to $500 for anyone who sells or transfers property where the possession is in one person and the title in another.

The famous McChord tobacco bill has passed the house and is now waiting its turn in the senate. This bill provides that any person or corporation engaged in the business of purchasing or manufacturing tobacco in this state shall pay a license tax equal to 10 cents on each 1,000 pounds of tobacco bought or manufactured in this state, the amount of the license to be determined by the commissioner of agriculture, and provides a fine of from $100 to $1,000 a day where such business is conducted without a license. It is claimed that this bill will be defeated in the senate, and that if it should pass it will likely be vetoed by the governor.

A few days ago there was much bitter feeling and political scheming over the seven contested seats in the house. It was claimed that the sitting members should be unseated at once because they had been unfairly elected. Attorneys were here constantly urging that the vote be taken to decide these contests, as it was a grave injustice to keep these men out of the seats they were rightfully entitled to occupy. "But, oh, what a difference in the morning." As soon as the senatorial race was over everything quieted down and on last Thursday all the contests were by agreement decided in favor of the sitting members, and not a single contestant won a seat. Why? Because there was no longer any need for an extra vote to win the race for United States senator. Of the seven contests three were against Democrats and four against Republicans, so without questioning the merits or demerits of any one of the contests, they just called it a tie and sent all the contestants home with their fingers in their mouths. That's politics.

The following bills have passed the senate during the past week:

Bill increasing the per capita for the inmates of the State School of Reform from $100 to $140.

Bill appropriating $65,000 to pay a deficit in the operating expenses of the School of Reform and to erect necessary new buildings and machinery.

Senator Neil's "anti-bootlegging" bill, which provides that a distiller shall sell whisky in local option districts only to licensed wholesale dealers.

Watson bill increasing the annual appropriation for the State Board of Health from $5,000 to $25,000.

Combs bill appropriating $10,000 to restore the Henry Clay monument in the Lexington cemetery.

The following bills passed the house in the past few days:

Bill to provide punishment for persons having in their charge children who are truants.

Bill to raise the standard of lawyers by providing for a state board of examiners to be appointed by the court of appeals.

Bill authorizing fifth-class towns to issue bonds to pay off their indebtedness.

Bill changing the time to Dec. 1 for the penalty to go on state taxes.

What He Was Waiting For.

A mysterious stranger with lowered brow and menacing glare, stood alongside one of the shoemaking exhibits in a department store recently and watched the shoemaker at work. For a long time he stood there, never shifting his glance steadily at the bench workman, watching him put handful after handful of tacks in his mouth and gradually empty each nail load into a shoe sole. Finally a store detective became suspicious, and after keeping an eye on the fellow for a while went over to him and asked him what he meant by his actions. "Oh, nothing," answered the man. "I'm just waiting to see what will happen to that shoemaker should he sneeze when he has a mouthful of tacks." —Philadelphia Record.

The Wisdom of the Bee.

We marvel at what we call the wisdom of the hive bee yet their is one thing she never learns from experience writes John Burroughs in the Atlantic and that is she is storing up honey for the use of man. She could not learn this because such knowledge is not necessary to her own well being. Neither does she ever know when she has enough to carry her through the winter. This knowledge, again is not important. Gather and store honey as long as there is any to be had is her motto, and in that rule she is safe.

Insect With Springboard Nose.

Among the curious insects of the Malay Peninsula is one called the lantern fly, which is remarkable for its sudden leaps made without the aid of its wings it was only after the first specimens of this queer insect were carried to London for examination that it was discovered that a curious projection on the front of its head, a kind of nose with a crease in it was the leaping organ. When bent back under the abdomen and suddenly released it sent the insect flying.

Call for Republican State Convention.

The Republican State Central meeting at Louisville Tuesday called a State Convention to meet in Louisville Wednesday May 6 at one o'clock P. M. to select four delegates from the State at large to the Chicago Convention at which a Republican candidate for President will be nominated. No attempt was made to pass resolutions endorsing Taft or Fairbank for President, and the meeting was harmonious throughout. Louisville and Lexington were placed in nomination for the Convention, the former city being winner.

Following is the call and member of delegates each county is entitled to send to State and district conventions.

In accordance with established custom and in obedience to the rules governing the Republican organization of Kentucky and the official call of the Republican National Committee, the Republican State Central Committee of Kentucky now directs that a State convention of delegated representatives of the Republican party of Kentucky be held in the city of Louisville Ky., at 1 o'clock p. m., standard time, on Wednesday, the sixth day of May, 1908 for the purpose of electing four delegates from the State of Kentucky-at-large, and four alternate delegates-at-large to the National Convention of the Republican party, to be held in Chicago Ill., on Tuesday, June 16, 1908, and for the purpose of nominating two electors from said State-at-large, to be voted for at the election to be held November 3, 1908.

The delegates to said State convention shall be elected by county mass-conventions to be held in the county seat in each county at 1 o'clock, standard time on Saturday April 25 1908, except in the counties of Boyd, Campbell and Kenton in which counties conventions shall be held at the cities of Ashland, Newport and Covington, respectively, and provided that in Jefferson county said mass-convention shall be held in each of the wards of the city of Louisville and for the county outside the limits of said city, which latter meeting may be held in said city. One delegate shall be elected for each 100 votes or fraction thereof, amounting to fifty or over, cast for the Republican electors in such county at the presidential election in 1904. The form of voting at said county or ward mass-conventions, shall be by ballot in each county in which the county committee provides for the election of county committeemen by ballot at county or ward mass-conventions, and said elections of delegates in counties which elect county committeemen by county or ward mass-conventions shall be held by the same officers who conduct the election of county committeemen. In counties which do not elect county committeemen by ballot the form of voting for such delegates shall be viva voce.

The Republican Congressional District Committee of each congressional district will, as directed by the call of the Republican National Committee meet and direct the holding of a congressional district convention in such district for the purpose of electing two district delegates and two alternates to said National Convention and said committee is hereby directed to provide in its call for the election of one member of the State Central Committee and for the nomination of one elector, to be voted for at said national election.

And it is hereby recommended that the delegates to said district convention be elected at the same time and in the same manner as the delegates to said State convention.

Said State Central Committee further directs that except as hereinafter provided in each and every county the new members of the Republican county committee shall be elected by precinct meetings which precinct meetings shall be held at 1 o'clock p. m. standard time on Saturday May 2 1908 in the manner prescribed in Rule 2 of the Rules of the Republican organization of Kentucky except, however that in each county in which said county committee determines that such members of such County Committee shall be elected by county or ward mass-conventions such mass-conventions shall be held in such county at the same time and place at which delegates are elected to said State convention, to wit on Saturday, April 25, at 1 o'clock p. m. standard time.

Candy for the Battle Ship.

Fifteen thousand pounds of high-grade bonbons were shipped to the supply ship the Culgoa, of Admiral Evan's fleet, early in the great voyage to Magdalen Bay. But this amount of candy was not regarded by naval men as at all excessive. In the separate canteen of the battleships there was probably much greater quantity of bonbons.

The Culgoa's 15,000 pounds was an extra lot taken as a precaution against exhausted stock of a necessity of life in the various ships. The attitude toward candy has changed in late years. It is no longer thought childish

CONSOLIDATION NOT YET EFFECTED

Between Factions of Organized Tobacco Growers

But There is a Probability That an Agreement Will Be Reached.

There have been several conferences of tobacco growers held in Owensboro during the past few days, some of them participated in by members of both the Home warehouse and A. S. of E. factions of the consolidation growers, others by members of only one or the other of the factions.

The report was current Monday that a consolidation of the factions had been decided upon and would be consummated at the Green River district meeting of the A. S. of E. to be held in Owensboro on Thursday of next week. Persons who participated in the conference have been reluctant to make any statement and nothing has been given out officially, except the following statement made last night by George M. Taylor, secretary of the Green River Equity (Home)
Warehouse company, in order to correct the misleading report that has been circulated. Mr. Taylor said:

"The statement that all factions of the tobacco growers have decided to unite is decidedly premature. Some of us have been trying for several days to devise some plan to submit to the people upon which it might be possible for all to unite, but so far we have been unable to find a basis upon which we thought all could agree."

There appears to be some possibility that consolidation or, at least, concerted action may be affected.
That branch of the organization which calls itself the "regular" A. S. of E., has, for some time past, been approaching the mode of management practiced by the Home Warehouse association. In fact, the sale of the 1907 crop of tobacco was made under Home warehouse rules and not under old line Equity rules.
Recently, several of the most vallueable champions of the foreign system of finance and warehousing have announced that the old plan was not the best.

It appears practically certain that,
if there is to be a reorganization or consolidation, it will be largely along the lines heretofore mapped out by the Home warehouse people.

Two Equity meetings will be held in Owensboro next week.—Owensboro Messenger.

The Misses Marks Entertain.

Wednesday afternoon, March 23, was a typical spring afternoon and two o'clock found the members and guests of the social club at the hospitable home of Misses Lettie and Margaret Marks. This was decidedly a yellow entertainment. The rooms were artistically and profusely decorated in jonquills. The tables were jonquills done in water colors. The ladies at the alternate tables played double finch while the others played single finch.
After thirteen games a most delightful luncheon of two courses was served. Cream chicken, with mushrooms,

DEPUTY SHERIFF SHOT BY AN INSANE MAN

Who Fired Upon Him From A Hole in Corner of House.

Owensboro, Ky., March 24.—James Weir deputy in the Sheriff's office, and one of the most popular young men of Owensboro was shot and seriously wounded this afternoon by Joe Hayden, an insane man, at Masonville, about twelve miles from town.
Mr. Weir lies at the city hospital tonight with about 100 shot in his left side. He is very weak from the loss of blood and at present it is impossible to tell the extent of his wounds.

Mr. Weir is cashier in Sheriff Harl's office. This afternoon Deputy Sheriff Hend asked him if he did not want to accompany him to Masonville to arrest Joe Hayden, who was violently insane. Weir agreed to go and they left Owensboro about noon, arriving at Hayden's house shortly after 2 o'clock.
As Weir was walking toward the house he remarked to Hend: "Suppose that man should shoot us?" No sooner had he made the remark than the report of a gun was heard and Weir fell to the ground. Hayden had fired a shotgun from a hole in the corner of the house. Weir heard him call his wife to hand him another cap for the gun.
Weir was able to get up and run, but soon fell from exhaustion, and a man passing in a buggy conveyed him to a nearby farmhouse, where a physician was summoned.

Dr. W. F. Strimann, a trained nurse and a number of Weir's friends from Owensboro went to the scene of the shooting in automobiles. The wounded man was brought to the city hospital.

Hayden is still barricaded in his home. His son reported to the neighbors that his father has a gun and ammunition and will resist arrest.
About three years ago Hayden was released from the asylum. He has lived with his family on a farm which he owns, and has always been regarded as dangerous. Mr. Weir is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Weir and a grandson of the late James Weir. He is prominent in social and business circles of Owensboro.

LATER.

A short while after young Weir was shot Hayden fled from his house in the direction of Utica. The next morning about 9 o'clock a few miles west of Utica Hayden shot Charley Bartlett.
Young Bartlett did not know Hayden and had not even heard of his having shot Deputy Sheriff Weir. The young man was on his way from his home to his work in a distant field, and was unknowingly surprised, when a man whom he did not know rose up from a fence corner and fired at him striking him in the left arm but inflicting only a flesh wound. Young Bartlett ran away from Hayden and did not return to the home of Dr.
John R. Trunnell, near by.

THE CRITIC'S SHRUG.

A Story of an Old Persian Poet and an Aspiring Shah.

"To be fair," said a noted dramatic critic, "is sometimes hard and cruel, and sometimes it is rash. You know there are reprisals. The unswerving fair critic often takes up his pen with the shrug of Omar, the old Persinn poet.

"You have heard of Omar's shrug?
No? Well, it was eloquent. The shah once had sent for the old poet.

"Omar," he said, "I have written some verses. Listen, and I will read them to you."

"And he read the verses and in the ensuing silence looked at Omar anxiously. 'Well?' he said.

"'Heaven born,' said Omar gently,
'each to his own calling. Scepter in hand, you are most wise, just and powerful, but pen in hand—' Omar shook his head and chuckled. 'Heaven born,' said he, 'such verses would disgrace a nine-year-old schoolboy.'

"His eyes flashing with wrath, the shah shouted to his guards:

"To the stables with this old fool,
and let him be soundly flogged!"

"Yet the shah, for all, respected Omar's judgment, and when a week later, another idea for a poem came to his mind and was feverishly executed he sent for the fearless and fair critic again.

"Another poem, Omar, a better
one. I'm sure you'll think it is a better one," he said wistfully. And he began to read the second poem to the old man.

"But in the middle of the reading
Omar turned and started for the door.

"Where are you going?" said the shah in amazement.

"Omar looked back and shrugged his shoulders.

"To the stables," he answered, "for another flogging!"—Denver Republican.

Comes out Strongly for Harmony

April 2, being the regular time for the quarterly meeting of the Green river district, let me suggest that all locals of the A. S. of E., whether in good standing or otherwise, which have heretofore been in good standing, get together and send one delegate to the district meeting. This meeting is a very important one, and every local in the district should be represented. We urge, particularly, that each county send in its report on acreage reduction that we may determine how the district as a whole stands on that question. Now is the time for action. Let us have the biggest and best meeting in the district's history.

The difference between the home
warehouse people and the Louisville warehouse people being practically eliminated, and a general sentiment that the two factions should get together, I take the responsibility of urging that they, too, send delegates.
We want to do business, or at least to get in shape to do business at this meeting and seeing the futility of discord and dissention, let us all strive to harmonize our energies in this effort to control the tobacco situation in this district and to keep ever in mind the text, "A house divided against itself, cannot stand."

J. S. CULLIN, President.
